7. Who is an Ear, Nose, and Throat (ENT) Specialist?

An otorhinolaryngologist, also known as an ENT doctor, specializes in diagnosing and treating ear, nose, and throat disorders. This medical branch focuses on conditions affecting the ears, nose, throat, and related head and neck areas.

8. Is an Ear-Nose-Throat (ENT) Specialist and an Otorhinolaryngologist different?

An otorhinolaryngologist is a medical doctor specializing in ear, nose, and throat (ENT) conditions. The term ENT specialist is a more common synonym. ENT doctors manage a wide range of ear, nose, and throat disorders, providing both medical and surgical treatments.

9. Do I need a referral to see an ENT specialist?

Appointments with ENT specialists are typically scheduled in advance. Walk-in consultations may also be available, though wait times may apply. Referral from another doctor or physician is sometimes required.

10. Should one consult an Ear-nose-throat (ent) Specialist in case of sinusitis?

An ENT specialist deals with problems related to ear, nose, and throat. A chronic infection of the sinuses causes sinusitis. You may visit a primary care doctor for sinusitis problem, but an ENT is the final authority to treat the condition. The sinuses are interconnected parts to the ear and nose, so an ENT is the best for treating sinusitis.
